Glass Reflections Artwork for Peace

水の都のガラスに映った、平和への想い

On 6th August 2015, on the 70th anniversary of the colossal devastation caused by the atomic bombing, Sandro Bottega, deeply moved by his visit to Hiroshima Peace Museum, started working on an art exhibition named “Spirit of Peace”.

The project, developed with the municipality of Hiroshima with the full support of the mayor Kazumi Matsui, will be exhibited from 25th November until 10th December 2017 in three prestigious sites: Hiroshima MOCA, Hiroshima Museum of Art, Hiroshima Prefectural Art Museum.

The three museums will showcase historical collection of artistic blown glass bottles produced by Bottega, and two majestic art pieces designed by Sandro Bottega and created by Master Glassblower Pino Signoretto from Murano and the masters glassblowers at the Alexander Bottega artistic glassworks.

MOCA

MOCA - HIROSHIMA CITY MUSEUM OF CONTEMPORARY ART

MOCA, Hiroshima City Museum of Contemporary Art, is located in Hiroshima on top of the big Hijiya Hill. Opened in 1989, it was the first public museum in Japan exclusively dedicated to contemporary art. The museum was designed by the famous architect Kisho Kurokawa. The permanent collection at Hiroshima City Museum of Contemporary Art also features works by selected Japanese and foreign artists, including Andy Warhol, Frank Stella, Donald Judd and Henry Moore.

SPIRIT OF PEACE: ART IN GRAPPA

At Hiroshima City Museum of Contemporary Art

Artistic exhibition of 50 historical Bottega blown glass bottles.

It is a collection of the artistic bottles made in blown glass by Bottega, over the past 30 years. Each bottle has been designed by Sandro Bottega, who found his main inspiration in the Muranese tradition of glass blowing. Some of these bottles are 1-meter-tall giant creations.

HIROSHIMA MUSEUM OF ART

HIROSHIMA MUSEUM OF ART

Hiroshima Museum of Art is a private museum, founded in 1978 by Hiroshima Bank to remember the centenary of its foundation. The collection features nearly 90 paintings by famous European artists, including Monet, Van Gogh, Picasso, and nearly 90 works by modern Japanese painters.

SPiRiT OF PEACE - REBIRTH OF HOPE
At Hiroshima Museum of Art
Artwork by Sandro Bottega & Pino
Signoretto.

A blown glass transparent dove (of nearly one metre), created by Master Pino Signoretto, surrounded by a hundred drop-shaped "bottles" containing green buds made in blown glass, created by the masters glassblowers at the Alexander Bottega artistic glassworks.
The transparent dove, whose pose suggests it is "waiting for peace", represents the rebirth of hope; while the surrounding glass drops symbolize the tears which turn into rain that nurtures life, embodied by the buds.

PREFECTURAL ART MUSEUM

HIROSHIMA PREFECTURAL ART MUSEUM

Reopened in 1986, after a careful renovation, it is a urban museum which harmonically complements the green context of the famous Shukkei-en garden. The museum hosts 3.500 artworks related to Hiroshima prefecture, Japanese/Asian craftsmanship pieces, and other works created between 1920 and 1930.

SPIRIT OF PEACE: FLIGHT FOR PEACE
At Hiroshima Prefectural Art Museum
Artwork by Sandro Bottega &
Pino Signoretto (1944 - 2017).

A white blown glass dove (of nearly one meter), created by Master Pino Signoretto, surrounded by a hundred drop-shaped "bottles", 50 of which feature Japanese flowers within themselves, created by the masters at Alexander Bottega blown glass factory.

The white dove finally takes flight to bring its message of peace and brotherhood to the world. The glass drops feature the flowers of oleander and camphor, which represent hope and strength and were elected respectively "City Flower" and "City Tree" of Hiroshima.
