Italian winemaker and distiller Bottega has extended its range of gins with Green Gin The Wild.

The latest expression was previewed at the Tax Free World Association (TFWA) World Exhibition in Cannes. The new line is available in travel retail from January.

Green Gin The Wild (40% ABV) is a distilled dry gin, characterised by herbaceous notes and a bouquet of botanicals including juniper, lemon, mandarin, hemp seeds, wild fennel and basil.

The botanicals are left to macerate separately in a solution of Italian Alps water and alcohol, and are then distilled twice to cleanse the liquid of any undesirable odours. The result is a distillate with a fine, clean bouquet.

The liquid features an intense aroma, with strong notes of sweet citrus and herbaceous nuances including myrtle berries, wild fennel and spring flowers. The palate is dry and harmonious, with vegetal notes of wild herbs.

The gin is housed in a transparent green glass bottle with a clear label highlighting the prevailing botanicals.

In addition to the gin and tonic, it is recommended to be mixed with Wild Negroni, a reinterpretation of the traditional cocktail especially created for the new distillate.
